

THE IMPLICATIONS OF POLAND'S DISASTER

April 10, 2010 — Lyndon LaRouche today issued the following warning, after learning of the plane crash near Smolensk, Russia, which killed the President of Poland and many top military and government officials this morning. LaRouche delivered these remarks during a dialogue with colleagues.

"The particular event of notability is the crash of a Polish government military airliner, in Russia, after the Russians from Moscow, had told the Polish pilot of a military aircraft, not to attempt to land, but to land instead in Moscow or Minsk—it was too dangerous. The plane, with about 97 passengers, had the full complement of the Polish Presidential government in the plane. The pilot stubbornly overruled the warning from Moscow, and proceeded with four attempts at landing—and everybody's dead.

"Now, this event is not an isolated event. When a Polish pilot, a military pilot, entrusted with the Presidential government, overrides an order, a warning given on Russian territory, for Russian landing on weather conditions and proceeds, and gets everybody killed, you have to think—you have to think.

"This is part of the death threat, or the environment of the death threat, to President Obama. You're in a situation, where the nearest comparison, to the present situation, internationally, is the assassination of President Kennedy. In such an operation, remember, you've got to assess the situation the way I do. Forget all these newspaper and similar kind of whodunit nonsense! It doesn't work that way. When you're going to assassinate the President of the United States, you run a number of operations, which create an atmosphere of instability, a dynamic, which enables you to at least have a fighting chance of covering up who did what to whom.

"We have the same thing with 9/11, at the beginning of 2001. I warned that we had to expect an attack, a terrorist attack on the United States. We continued through that; that warning stood. All the evidence was there. We had a big flurry of diversionary business.

"Now, the actual attack was done by the British and the Saudis. It was the Saudi funding, through BAE, which organized the actual attack on New York City, etc. Entirely organized that way.

"And it was for a shock to change the government; it was an actual affair of state. And the taking down of the entire Polish government, in one airplane, when Moscow had warned them that they should land, instead, in Moscow, because the conditions were absolutely unsafe, and the pilot stubbornly refused that, and went ahead, and killed everybody on the plane. Now, if he did that, it sounds like somebody had a death threat against his entire family, if he didn't do that. Because, in the condition—the weather conditions were impossible for landing. The pilot has gas enough, fuel to continue on to Moscow, where he was ordered by Moscow to land—"your situation is hopeless, get back here." And the pilot made four attempts to force a landing, and on the fourth attempt, got everybody killed, including himself.

"This is a warning of a threat to the President of the United States. You're in a situation, what do you have? You have a President who is absolutely worse than useless. He has just put through this health-care plan, which is what he was assigned to do. He has completed his mission, as President! And the British who employed him for this mission, are about to get rid of him, in order to create a situation for imposing an actual dictatorship in the United States, by disposing of a President, who has already given up all of his political usefulness! In which key members of his government, including Rahm Emanuel and others, are trying to quit the government, because it's a disaster area.

"You have to take my judgment of this thing: To explain it to you, how this works, is too much, there are too many things. You're not prepared to deal with this kind of thing, but let me tell you what's happening. Take it from me, this is the situation. We're now—and the President is an idiot! among his other qualifications. This guy is doing the worst thing possible, for a President who's under target for assassination. I mean, they want to get rid of him!

"He's no longer useful to them. He's politically unpopular. He's not a credible instrument for their use, any more. He's all used up! And they will dispose of him, in order to create a situation, of terror, like 9/11, in which they install new measures of dictatorship to deal with the present world situation.

"Now, the killing of the entire Polish government, in a piece of folly, such as that that happened overnight, is typical of such a situation. As in the case of the Kennedy assassination, there were diversionary actions, all over the place! And you had the Chief Justice of the United States covered up the assassination, Warren! With the Warren Commission Report, Johnson knew it was an assassination conspiracy, President Johnson, and yet, he covered it up, because he was afraid, as he admitted later. He was afraid to buck it. The entire plunge into the Indo-China war was done by a terrorizing of the U.S. government with the Kennedy assassination.

"You're in such a situation, now. Tiddlywinks time is over! The entire Polish government has just been wiped out, by one act of folly, which never should have happened. You're in that kind of period. The entire financial system of the world is collapsing, disintegrating. It's hopeless. The present world situation is absolutely hopeless. Now, they couldn't solve it, but we have to solve it. The present measures are hopeless, finished, it's over. And that's what we have to deal with. And we have to think in those terms, and get off the kind of tiddlywinks thinking, that often goes on. You can't say, "Well, there's this, I can explain it this way, I can spin it this way, I could spin it that way"—this kind of nonsense. We're dealing with real history. Not with fun and games.

"So, in that setting, which we are now facing, a prospective assassination of the President of the United States, and in this matter he's his foremost enemy, after the British. The British want to get rid of him!"

The LaRouche statement comes in the context of an intensive buildup of a horrendous security environment around President Obama in the immediate days ahead. From April 12-13, between 40-60 heads of state will be in Washington, D.C. for an international conference, convened and hosted by President Obama, on nuclear non-proliferation. The nation's capital will be in a security lock-down, but experienced Executive Branch and diplomatic officials have warned that the security environment is "impossible," and they expressed profound concern that the President and other heads of state could be in jeopardy.

And between April 15-19, a series of protest demonstrations, including a scheduled armed protest across the Potomac River from Washington, D.C. in northern Virginia, will take place, drawing in some known British-promoted agent provocateurs from the militia milieu. It was on the basis of this entire pattern of developments, indicating the building up of an environment for potential violence, that Lyndon LaRouche issued his first warnings of a potential British assassination of President Obama during the immediate days and weeks ahead. The Polish crash, wiping out almost the entire national civilian and military leadership of the country, significantly added to that pattern, prompting LaRouche's escalated warning.

The U.S. and Russia Should Launch a Sudden, Unexpected Hit Against the Afghan Dope Trade

In discussions with colleagues yesterday, Lyndon LaRouche emphasized that we have got to organize a strategic shock-effect intervention into the current strategic situation, and the ideal situation that lends itself to that, is a sudden, unexpected hit against the Afghanistan opium and heroin apparatus.

It's the kind of thing that can be done in a matter of several hours overnight, based on very good intelligence, LaRouche explained. You don't want to go around bombing peasants, but you want to deliver a deadly blow to the British Empire's dope capability. You want to hit the trafficking organizations, you want to knock out their opium fields, and you want to do it as a joint Russian-American operation. This will have the effect of causing a major shift in the strategic situation.

Cooperate with the Russians, and screw the British by running an effective eradication operation against their opium war at its most vulnerable point, which is inside Afghanistan.

We've got to move fast, LaRouche continued, and run an operation that catches the British off guard and preempts their ability to carry out any effective counter operation.

One of the essential features of this is that we've got to bring Iran in on the operation. They have a very strong vested interest in defeating the opium trade out of Afghanistan — 20% of the population of Iran is now addicted to opium.

Therefore, LaRouche said, we run a pre-emptive operation against the British. It's a Russian-American joint operation; we get the Iranians in, we get the Chinese giving their support for it, which will shore up Pakistani cooperation, and under those circumstances we've got India on board as well. The British are already hated in China, and, from the standpoint of the Anglo-Saudi operations out of Afghanistan, nobody likes the Saudis at all.

This is a strategic operation, LaRouche reiterated. Keep the British on the defensive. We've scored a significant impact at the White House by the way LaRouche packaged the whole Afghanistan policy in the impeachment of Obama for his tantamount to treason collusion with the Taliban drug traffickers, by ordering a hands-off policy on the opium business. We've created a situation where the Obama factor itself has been thrown onto the defensive.

Right now, in this immediate phase, we've got to keep Obama on the defensive, LaRouche explained, because we've got to get a green light from inside the US government for this joint US-Russia operation: a well-planned operation by Russia and the United States to break the back of the opium apparatus in Afghanistan.

If you do this, LaRouche noted, this will shift the dynamic inside of Iran as well. And if the Israelis figure out that LaRouche has a direct hand in this operation, then they will tend to get very careful, and will be contained from taking some kind of insane flight forward operation.
