

Destroying the British Empire: An American Christmas Tradition

Lyndon LaRouche delivered the following statement on December 11th.

The people of the United States have the power, if mobilized, to have changed the course of this society, to change the course of life in the United States from pessimism to recovery. We had the resources. We had people who wanted those results. But we had politicians who were scared bunnies who wouldn't fight, and said 'Wait till the next election.'

"Well, don't you think that maybe, since these Congressmen have the power, if they want to use it, to do something about your life and your future, with their power as government--Don't you think they should be called upon to represent you, instead of representing Obama, or representing fascism? Don't you think that your being pessimistic is the worst thing that you could do for yourself? Don't you know and recognize that if you would stand up and fight as citizens, and ream your Congressman, and tell him he's a gutless coward,

You have people who are in the Congress, who should have courage--they don't--and as a reciprocal lack of courage, and lack of respect--of the lack of courage by the Congressmen, and the lack of spirit by the citizen.

"Do you have confidence in yourself? We know you have very little confidence in your elected representatives. Do you have confidence in yourself? Are you a citizen, or are you waiting for somebody to deliver something on your platter? Are you willing to go out there and burn tail?" And that's the way to do it. Just tell 'em, "Look, guys, you don't have any chance. Read the newspapers, read popular opinion and so forth: You don't have a chance--unless you change it.

"First of all, there's some doubt as to whether the world system is going to make it through the end of this year--that already, as we approach Christmas, you're having a crisis situation come into play, now. And every part of the world, is ready to explode...And what you have to deal with now, is you're in a sudden situation, where anything can break, at any time--or at least it would seem so to you, if you're looking at it from a so-called "statistical" approach to history. Take your statistical book and throw it away! It has no relevance to the current situation.

"We're on the verge of a break-out of something which has no precedent.

"Nobody knows what money is! Because nobody recognizes money, in its present form. You can be in a blow-out, at almost any time, corresponding to what happened in Germany in the Fall of 1923. Your most comparable statistical fact, is Germany in the Autumn of 1923, and probably some date earlier than December of 1923. And therefore, you have to think about--You're approaching a complete breakdown crisis of the entire international system. And the breakdown crisis is immediately located in the transatlantic system. It is centered on the British system, which is on the verge of a breakdown, but more significantly, the Inter-Alpha Group, which is the dominant part of the international monetary-financial system, is in a breakdown crisis!

"Now, we have a problem out there. I'm sure that many of you people out there," you can tell them, and tell them from me: "I know you're demoralized. I know you're demoralized, because your fellow citizens are demoralized. And you're demoralized because you know your politicians have been no damn good. Why are they no damn good? Because they're cowardly! Even figures who otherwise would be courageous leaders, are acting like stinking cowards; they're crawling."

LaRouche Democrats Declare Candidacies for Congress

This week, the LaRouche Democratic Candidates: Rachel Brown of Massachusetts, Summer Shields of California, and Kesha Rogers of Texas, have announced their intention to appear on the ballot in each of their respective states as candidates for Congress. These announcements come on the heels of a completely disastrous election for the United States, in the midst of an ever worsening economic collapse, and in contrast to the total void of credible leadership typical of current US Politics. These three LaRouche Democrats represent the drive to restore Glass-Steagall and begin the NAWAPA Program to rebuild the US and World Economy. Each candidate promotes Lyndon LaRouche's unique solutions to restoring the world economy, and it is for that exact reason that they have collectively decided to declare their candidacies for a 2012 election.

Texas-22

“ Our chance of surviving this breakdown crisis, depends on making a willful commitment, as creative human beings, to develop the scientific, industrial, and cultural betterment of mankind, as the Preamble to our Constitution says. The will to do this doesn’t exist in the current political leadership; as such, they have no moral authority to govern. That is why I am launching a new campaign for U.S. Congress, to guarantee that the urgently needed solutions to the crisis, of removing Obama, reinstating Glass-Steagall, and building NAWAPA, will be put on the table.”

Rachel Brown
Massachusetts-4

“Glass-Steagall should have been passed by now. Obama should have been removed from office. As none of the newly-elected or current office holders have demonstrated they will fight on these fundamental principles, I am declaring my candidacy for office. The population who voted for me will not be betrayed, I will continue to fight in their interest.”

Summer Shields
California-8

“The American people voted for a future, and I am going to give it to them. The policy is simple and to the point: 1. Go with a Glass Steagall reorganization, tossing the toxic waste out of the financial system and going with a credit system based on Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton’s approach. 2. Employ 4 million people in the greatest science driver and regional development program ever developed by mankind: NAWAPA. 3. The U.S. is going to hold hands with Russia, China and India and any other country that decides to get on board and enter into long term treaty agreements to get rid of the current financial system and get out of this financial crisis safely.”
