Really appreciate the kind words, thank you. And looking forward to the WebEx -- hopefully this afternoon!

[REDACTED],

I think you did a spectacular job, first with Epstein, and now with Maxwell. And from what I could see, the teamwork was excellent.

You have my thanks and admiration.

Let's be sure to schedule the team Webex when you all have time to do it.

Everyone all the way up the chain has really cared about this the whole way through, and it was a team effort to work through the byzantine legal issues, the challenges with various witnesses, and all the other ancillary things that came up along the way. As one of the victim's counsel said to us recently, it has helped to right two wrongs - the initial wrong of what Epstein and Maxwell did, and the secondary wrong of how it was approached by the government the first time around. So, thank you again, and we're looking forward to the next stages.
