Jordan,

Thank you again for speaking with me yesterday, and as I mentioned, my two colleagues on the Epstein investigation are [REDACTED] and [REDACTED], both copied here—please feel free to be in touch with any or all of us anytime that would be useful. As I mentioned, we would be interested in learning the accounts of your clients, and we would—as we have with all the victims we’ve spoken to so far—engage with them with the highest levels of sensitivity, including there being no requirement to discuss any particular event or topic at any time. Even to the extent there are any individuals who would not currently be comfortable speaking with us directly, if they would permit you to provide an attorney proffer to us, that also could be very helpful.

And in the first instance, to the extent this is possible, it would be very helpful for us just to be provided the names of your clients—we would not attempt to contact them outside of our discussions with you, but knowing who they are will help us inadvertently approaching individuals who are in fact represented, and would also help us identify to you any particular individual(s) who might be known to us already.

We look forward to being in touch with you soon, and thank you again for being in touch.

Regards,

[REDACTED]

Good speaking with you. We will relay our discussion to our clients and see if there is interest. Is there any timeline that we should be aware of

Good morning,

I am a federal prosecutor with the Southern District of New York, and I have been trying to reach Mr. Merson; I left phone messages last Monday and Thursday and also earlier this morning. I am interested in speaking with Mr. Merson regarding our Office's ongoing investigation into conduct relating to Jeffrey Epstein. I would appreciate a response from Mr. Merson or any appropriate person.

Regards,
